DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 22, the preamble of the claim recites a device according to the device in independent claim 20, but it goes on to recite dependency on method claims including independent claim 10. While a device may carry out a method, the device consists of elements, while a method consists of steps. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1, 2, 8, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wysong (3,922,607).

Regarding claims 1, 2, and 16, Wysong discloses a method of transmitting and receiving audio information that is divided into primary, secondary, and tertiary programs, the secondary programs are transmitted in an alternating sequence and the tertiary programs are transmitted parallel to those programs (Col 3, lines 1-5 "one subcarrier is modulated with substantially continuous program material, such as background music, and another subcarrier is modulated with sequential messages, each message having associated therewith [sic] a coded address signal")

Regarding claim 8, Wysong discloses a method of transmitting programs broadcast by a radio transmitter (Col 2, line 68 "an improved broadcasting system").

Regarding claim 9, please see Examiner's remarks regarding claim 1.

Further regarding claim 9, Wysong discloses a method of transmitting programs that comprise commercials (Col 1, lines 60-63 "a second subcarrier generator, at a different frequency, is modulated with a second program, such as commercial messages").

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 10 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wysong.

Regarding claim 10, Wysong discloses a mode where the selected program terminates after a time (Col 1, lines 65-68 "The second subcarrier also contains a signal which causes the receiver to revert back to normal programming once a particular message has concluded"), but is silent on the mode being initiated by a user.

The Examiner takes official notice that user intervention is notoriously well-known, commercially available, and widely used on a variety of equipment, allowing a user to have the equipment perform the actions the user prefers or desires at the time the user prefers or desires it.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Wysong in order to include a user-initiated mode.

Regarding claim 11, Wysong discloses the secondary information is transmitted parallel to the primary information (Col 1, line 51 “Two subcarriers are used”).

Regarding claim 12, please see Examiner’s remarks regarding claim 8.

Regarding claim 13, please see Examiner’s remarks regarding claim 9.

Regarding claim 14, please see Examiner’s remarks regarding claim 1.

Regarding claim 15, Wysong is silent on digitally encoding of the information.

The Examiner takes official notice that digital encoding of audio and video information is notoriously well known, commercially available, and widely used, providing users and providers with a robust, high quality, reliable means of transmitting information.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Wysong to digitally encode the program information.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claims 17-19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 2616

Regarding claims 17-19, the prior art discloses several information streams consisting of sequential programs and a parallel program, as analyzed and discussed above. The prior art does not disclose the use of a buffer for intermediate storage of a stream not being played while the other stream is being played.

8. Claims 3-7 and 20-22 are allowed.

Regarding claims 3-7 and 20-22, please see Examiner's remarks regarding claims 17-19 above.

The Examiner notes that Hite et al (6,002,393), referred to as Beauregard, was cited in the PCT report as an X reference against claims 20-22. The Examiner feels that this reference is misapplied, because it does not fairly disclose, teach, or suggest the information in each channel being divided into primary and secondary information as recited in claim 20. Rather, Hite et al disclose a parallel program that is only one type of information, that being commercials.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to James A. Fletcher whose telephone number is (571) 272-7377. The examiner can normally be reached on 7:45-5:45 M-Th, first Fridays off.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, James Groody can be reached on (571) 272-7950. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
